A valid license is required by law to drive a car or other motor vehicle in Canada. If you have a valid driving license from your country of origin, it will be valid in Canada for the first 60 days after you landed in the country. To drive legally in the long term, consider the following three options: Get an Ontario driver's license If you're planning to drive while you're here and don't have an international driver's permit, you need to apply for a Ontario driver's license. Anyone 16 and older can apply for a driving license in Ontario. Beginner drivers, or anyone who has never driven before, will have to take a driving test and gain experience before receiving a full license. There are different types of licenses in Ontario, but you need a G license to drive a car, minivan or small truck pickup. To learn the rules of the road in Canada, you must enroll in a driver training program or review theOntario road safety officer. You can purchase a copy of this book via Service Ontario. After studying thoroughly, you can take the knowledge test. Test of driving experience You can self-declare a year of driving experience, showing a valid, valid,Foreign driver's license. If you want to earn credit for more than a year of driving experience, you will also need an official letter from the government or foreign agency that issued the driver's license, confirming that the license is authentic. This letter must be written in English or French. Rent/buy a car if you need a car for a short time or a weekend trip, you can rent a car from a local car rental company. most car rental agencies require the driver to be at least 25 years old. also need to present a valid driving license, passport (if you don't have a Canadian license) and a credit card. if you plan to buy a vehicle in Canada, you must buy car insurance and get a driver's license of the ontario. it is illegal to operate a vehicle without registration in the vehicle and without a valid license. It is also illegal to drive under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Alternatively, you can search on the big river carshare for more information about sharing a car with other community members. remember any car you drive: must be registered with the ontario government must be covered by an insurance policy must be guided by someone with a valid Canadian license guide tips 1. know the laws and guidelines before you start driving, take time to learn the laws on the air, or the province/territory you are visiting. the driving laws are strictly applied in Canada and there are sanctions to break laws. 2. remember to bring your documentation this includes: valid driver license of the country of origin, international driver's permit, or the driver's license of the ontario copy of your valid study permit letter confirming your registration status at the universityCar registration and insurance card ("pink slip") in case it stopped by a police officer 3. Maintaining safety conditions for you and other drivers in Canada, pedestrians (not cars) have theon the road. Keep within the speed limits of the road and look out for animals, children, or students. While driving, keep your eyes open for pedestrians at all times, especially around the university. 4. Make sure your car is well maintained Maintain a record of all car maintenance controls and check that lights, horn and tires are in good work order before leaving your home every day. 5. Prepare your car for winter driving If you have never driven in snow or ice before, take your time and prepare your car for the cold. Buy winter tires and ice scraper. Before leaving from any place, make sure the car lights work and scrape any ice and snow from the windows so that you can see. Many Canadians buy a Canadian car association (CAA) for access to emergency road service (boosting or towing your car.) Parking If you have a parking lot in the city center, you can have to park in the street or in a garage. Remember to look for 'No Parking' signs to avoid a parking ticket and never park on the tracks of the light railway ION. During the winter months, you can't park at night on the streets of the city. If you frequently park on campus, consider buying a parking space from Parking Services. To a lot of campus visitors, you need to pay cash to park. park.
